

Sir Partha Dasgupta

Frank Ramsey Professor Emeritus of Economics
Cambridge University

Sir Partha Dasgupta is the Frank Ramsey Professor Emeritus in Economics at the Cambridge University, Fellow of St John's College, Cambridge, and the Director of Darwin-Hamied Centre for Biodiversity and Demography at Christ's College, Cambridge. He has also taught at the London School of Economics, London, UK and Stanford University, California, US. Dasgupta is the first economist to be elected a Fellow of the Royal Society in the United Kingdom. Along with Karl-Göran Maler of Sweden, he co-founded SANDEE. Additionally, Dasgupta is a foreign member of the US National Academy of Sciences, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, American Philosophical Society, and the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, and is an honorary fellow of the London School of Economics and Trinity College (Cambridge). He has received the Volvo Environment Prize (2002), John Kenneth Galbraith Prize (2006), Zayed International Environment Prize (2011), Blue Planet Prize (2015), Tyler Prize (2016), the 2021 Kew International Medal of the Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, UK, and the BBVA Foundation Frontiers of Knowledge Award. He has been awarded honorary doctorates by Harvard University, Wageningen University, University of Bologna, Tilberg University, Catholic University of Louvain, and University of York. His latest works include an independent review – 'The Economics of Biodiversity: The Dasgupta Review (2024)' and On Natural Capital: The Value of the World Around Us (forthcoming, 2025).